Organized by the Fine Arts Department, this initiative engaged 16 students, including Harjot Singh, Aarzo, and Manpreet Kaur, in promoting cleanliness, environmental awareness, and water conservation. Through artistic expressions like paintings, installations, and awareness campaigns, they learned how to effectively communicate the importance of preserving our environment and conserving water resources. This experience honed their abilities to collaborate, innovate, and advocate for social and environmental responsibility, essential skills for navigating and positively impacting their communities and the world at large. In aligning with the larger national movement for a cleaner and sustainable future, these students not only showcased their creative talents but also acquired invaluable life skills that will serve them well throughout their lives.
